

There are ‘three’ pages (which are each designed to scroll for view).

It’s a standard layout that we can alter through design once we’ve got the key principles and agreed the scope.

The Main Menu will run across the top of at all times so that it remains possible to navigate quickly to any section of the site. In the mobile view the menu will transform to ‘hamburger’ format.

The site is designed to be responsive to all screen sizes and device types. The bootstrap library grid system (can) be utilised to effect the responsiveness. On wide screens, information will be provided horizontally, whereas on smaller screens the information will be stacked vertically.
